Evaluation Procedures

The success of this course depends on our ability to have read the assigned readings closely, to have thought carefully about the points raised or ignored by authors, and to bring to the group your questions and concerns about their concepts and positions into the discussions groups. Study prior to class ensures your productive participation.

Homework Assignments: Case Briefs and Case Studies (Obj. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5)

There are 7 homework assignments. You will either be asked to do a case brief or to respond to a specific case study in each module. The assignments are related to the topics during the week.

Final Project

The final project requires you to synthesize and apply course information and learning to a final presentation. The presentation may be either a (1) podcast with accompanying script or paper; or (2) PowerPoint presentation with notes at the bottom of each slide. In this final project, address the following: (1) an overview about the importance of knowing about school law, politics, and ethics; (2) more explanations/defining of each-law, politics, and ethics as they pertain to educational issues; (3) a synthesis of case studies and their implications for teachers; (4) a reflection of what was learned about law/politics/ethics and how new knowledge and understandings will influence your particular teaching and career; and (5) a list and description of at least 5 resources (documents, websites, centers, etc.) to draw from for more information about law/politics/ethics as they pertain to educational issues. Include references and adhere to APA (6th ed). style.

Forum Participation

Your forum post is due by Midnight on Thursday of the week listed. The minimum length of your forum posts are approximately 1 double spaced page (300 words). Your 2 responses to classmates' postings are due by Midnight on Sunday of the week listed and should be a minimum of 150 words (about a paragraph). Writing "I agree" or "you are right" does not meet the requirements of a thoughtful response to your classmates.

The success of this course depends on our ability to have read the assigned readings closely, to have thought carefully about the points raised or ignored by authors, and to bring to the group your questions and concerns about their theses and positions into the forum. Prior to each class I will post Announcements and outline the focus of the subsequent session and direct your reading. Having prepared the readings prior to class ensures your productive participation.

Classes will typically begin with a question I have posed the previous week. We should work to achieve conversational exchanges with each other through the forums, constructively challenging each other to think broadly and critically about ideas or assertions posed by the reading.

In all participation and assignments I am looking for evidence of:

- Demonstration of substantial knowledge and higher order thinking and analytical skills and application of facts, concepts, terms, and processes learned/read/discussed;
- Critical contemplation, i.e., "grapple" with issues and topics;
- Appropriate use of knowledge learned;
- Imaginative thinking and responses to challenges/problems/issues;
- Exploring underlying assumptions about the lifelong value of education and classroom management of schooling;
- Clarity of expression and logical connection among ideas expressed;
- Writing that reflects precise and concise thinking;
- Excellent grammar, syntax, and spelling.

| | | Academic responsibilities. | | Scenario: A small high school has generally begun graduation ceremonies with prayer. The valedictorian is typically the student who delivers the prayer; however, this year's valedictorian has announced that she finds the custom offensive and opposes any prayer at graduation. The members of the senior class met and voted (by a majority of 65 to 27) to continue the prayer tradition and elected a class chaplain to deliver the prayer. The principal has noted that students, not the school, are in charge of graduation ceremonies. You are now the principal. While some parents support the students' actions, some are very upset, and, in fact, the ACLU has contacted the district threatening a suit saying there was a violation of church and state. Prepare a response from the point of view of the principal. Be sure to consider the Lemon test, the students' rights to free speech as protected by the First Amendment to the US Constitution, and any other legal or cultural issues that apply. Then, comment on, ask probing questions about, or respectfully challenge at least two of your colleague students' responses to this situation. |

Citation and Reference Style

Attention Please: Students will follow the American Psychological Association (APA) manual (6th edition) as the sole citation and reference style used in written work submitted as part of coursework to the University. Assignments completed in a narrative essay or composition format must follow the citation style cited in the APA manual (6th ed). See <http://www.apastyle.org/> and <http://www.apastyle.org/learn/tutorials/basics-tutorial.aspx>

Websites: Do not quote or paraphrase published sources, including assigned readings and Web-based sources, without explicit reference to the original work. Credit the source using APA style. Cutting and pasting from a website without citing the electronic source is plagiarism, as is taking phrases, sentences and/or paragraphs from textbooks without referencing the source.

Documents/Files: When uploading assignments, make sure they are in doc, docx, or RTF format. Make sure to properly format papers (or PowerPoint) with a cover sheet. Use black 12 Times New Roman, Arial, or other appropriate font. Adhere to the essentials of Standard American English grammar, word choice, spelling, and punctuation and APA 6th edition.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a serious violation of APUS's code of academic conduct. The Student handbook explains specific policies and penalties. Here is the link to the policy:

http://www.apus.edu/student-handbook/writing-standards/index.htm#Academic Dishonesty

Additionally, the School of Education offers further clarification. Specifically, all students in this course are to follow these guidelines:

- Do not quote or paraphrase published sources, including assigned readings and Web-based sources, without explicit reference to the original work. Credit the source using APA style. Cutting and pasting from a website without citing the electronic source is plagiarism, as is taking phrases, sentences and/or paragraphs from textbooks without referencing the source.

- Do not insert parts of class lectures, online modules, or tutorials, including examples, into your own work, without permission or citation. These are published by the instructors, who properly cite the sources of any externally published sources.
- Do not insert parts of previous students' work or current students' work into your own work, without permission and/or citation.

You are expected to use your own words to demonstrate your understanding of the content of this course. While it is appropriate to reference experts and outside resources, students should do so judiciously to avoid simply summarizing and paraphrasing what all other sources have stated about a given topic. Remember to always cite any work that is not your own intellectual property. Failure to do so may result in failing an assignment and/or course; and ultimately may result in being removed from the program due to a violation of professional dispositions.

Late Assignments

Students are expected to submit classroom assignments by the posted due date and to complete the course according to the published class schedule. As adults, students, and working professionals, I understand you must manage competing demands on your time. Should you need additional time to complete an assignment, please contact me before the due date so we can discuss the situation and determine an acceptable resolution. Routine submission of late assignments is unacceptable and may result in points deducted from your final course grade.

Netiquette

Online universities promote the advancement of knowledge through positive and constructive debate – both inside and outside the classroom. Forums on the Internet, however, can occasionally degenerate into needless insults and “flaming.” Such activity and the loss of good manners are not acceptable in a university setting – basic academic rules of good behavior and proper “Netiquette” must persist. Remember that you are in a place for the rewards and excitement of learning which does not include descent to personal attacks or student attempts to stifle the Forum of others.

- Technology Limitations: While you should feel free to explore the full-range of creative composition in your formal papers, keep e-mail layouts simple. The Sakai classroom may not fully support MIME or HTML encoded messages, which means that bold face, italics, underlining, and a variety of color-coding or other visual effects will not translate in your e-mail messages.
- Humor Note: Despite the best of intentions, jokes and especially satire can easily get lost or taken seriously. If you feel the need for humor, you may wish to add “emoticons” to help alert your readers: ;-), :), ☺

The AMU/APU Library Guides provide access to collections of trusted sites on the Open Web and licensed resources on the Deep Web. The following are specially tailored for academic research at APUS:

- Program Portals contain topical and methodological resources to help launch general research in the degree program. To locate, search by department name, or navigate by school.
- Course Lib-Guides narrow the focus to relevant resources for the corresponding course. To locate, search by class code (e.g., SOCI111), or class name.

If a guide you need is not available yet, please email the APUS Library: librarian@apus.edu.

Turnitin.com

Faculty may require assignments be submitted to Turnitin.com. Turnitin.com will analyze a paper and report instances of potential plagiarism for the student to edit before submitting it for a grade. In some cases professors may require students to use Turnitin.com. Typically the course professor will establish a Turnitin.com access code for his/her classes. If the code has not been established, those who wish to use Turnitin.com may ask their professor to establish the code.

Special Note to Faculty: Please be certain to provide accurate directions and to set up the functionality appropriately.
